

BSG wins preferred supplier status for Office of Government Commerce (OGC)

The Business Systems Group has been awarded preferred supplier status for the OGC (Office of Government Commerce) - one of only 19 companies in the UK who have passed the standards required to bid for Application Services based contracts within the public sector.

The OGC has been set up to modernise procurement in government and deliver substantial value for money improvements.

Peter Gershon, the Chief Executive for the OGC said:

"The new OGC arrangements will play a major role in providing Government departments with solutions to meet a wide range of e-Government requirements."

Peter Gershon, the Chief Executive for the OGC said:

The key measure of success for the OGC is to deliver one billion pounds of value for money improvements from better procurement by March 2003. One of the ways in which this will be achieved is by working with strategic suppliers, like the BSG Group, to deliver high quality solutions for Government departments.

The OGC has 3 classes of preferred supplier - Application Services, Managed Services and Telecommunications Services. BSG is able to bid for any project under the 'Application Services' classification - this includes:

- E-Government Administration
- E-Commerce
- E-Procurement
- E-CRM
- External Specialist or Bureau Services
- Outsourced Services
- Managing Distributed Enterprises
- Messaging
- Personal Productivity
- Document Management
